Mr. Lamphere directs the Glee Club which is enjoying its new facilities, the music wing.

Where is the heart that doth not keep,
Within its inmost core,
Some fond remembrance hidden deep,
Of days that are no more?

—Ellen Clementine Howarth

The 1966 Amethyst is a memory book; each page is a souvenir of events making this year at Amherst a wonderful experience.

Unfolded on these pages is the story of the leaders preparing the students for a world in which education is one of increasing importance. With the guidance of the teachers, the students have worked industriously this year to broaden the scope of their knowledge. However, many activities have provided entertainment and recreation for relaxation and diversion from more serious matters. Participation in clubs, sports, and other student endeavors has taught us the responsibilities of leadership and the essentiality of working together to attain our goals.

The 1966 Amethyst records for future recollection all the spirit and energy which make Amherst County High School an essential factor in the successful functioning of our community and country.

A.C.H.S. enjoys continuing progress.

This is a tribute to the man in the white lab coat who teaches within our school. He has a B.S. degree from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute; and for the past ten years, he has been a biology and earth and space science instructor at Amherst County High School.

With his students, he undertakes such feats as trying to dye the feathers of chickens before the eggs have hatched and trying to produce a rare black African violet. He also has a special interest in testing the effects of chemicals on the growth of plants. Seasoned with his vigorous humor, his classes are courses in common sense and self-reliance as well as courses in scientific study.

In addition to teaching, he drives a school bus, sponsors the Science Club, and attends many of the school's athletic contests.

For his valuable instruction and his priceless wit and friendship, we, the Amethyst staff, wish to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mr. John A. Camm by dedicating to him this 1966 Amethyst.

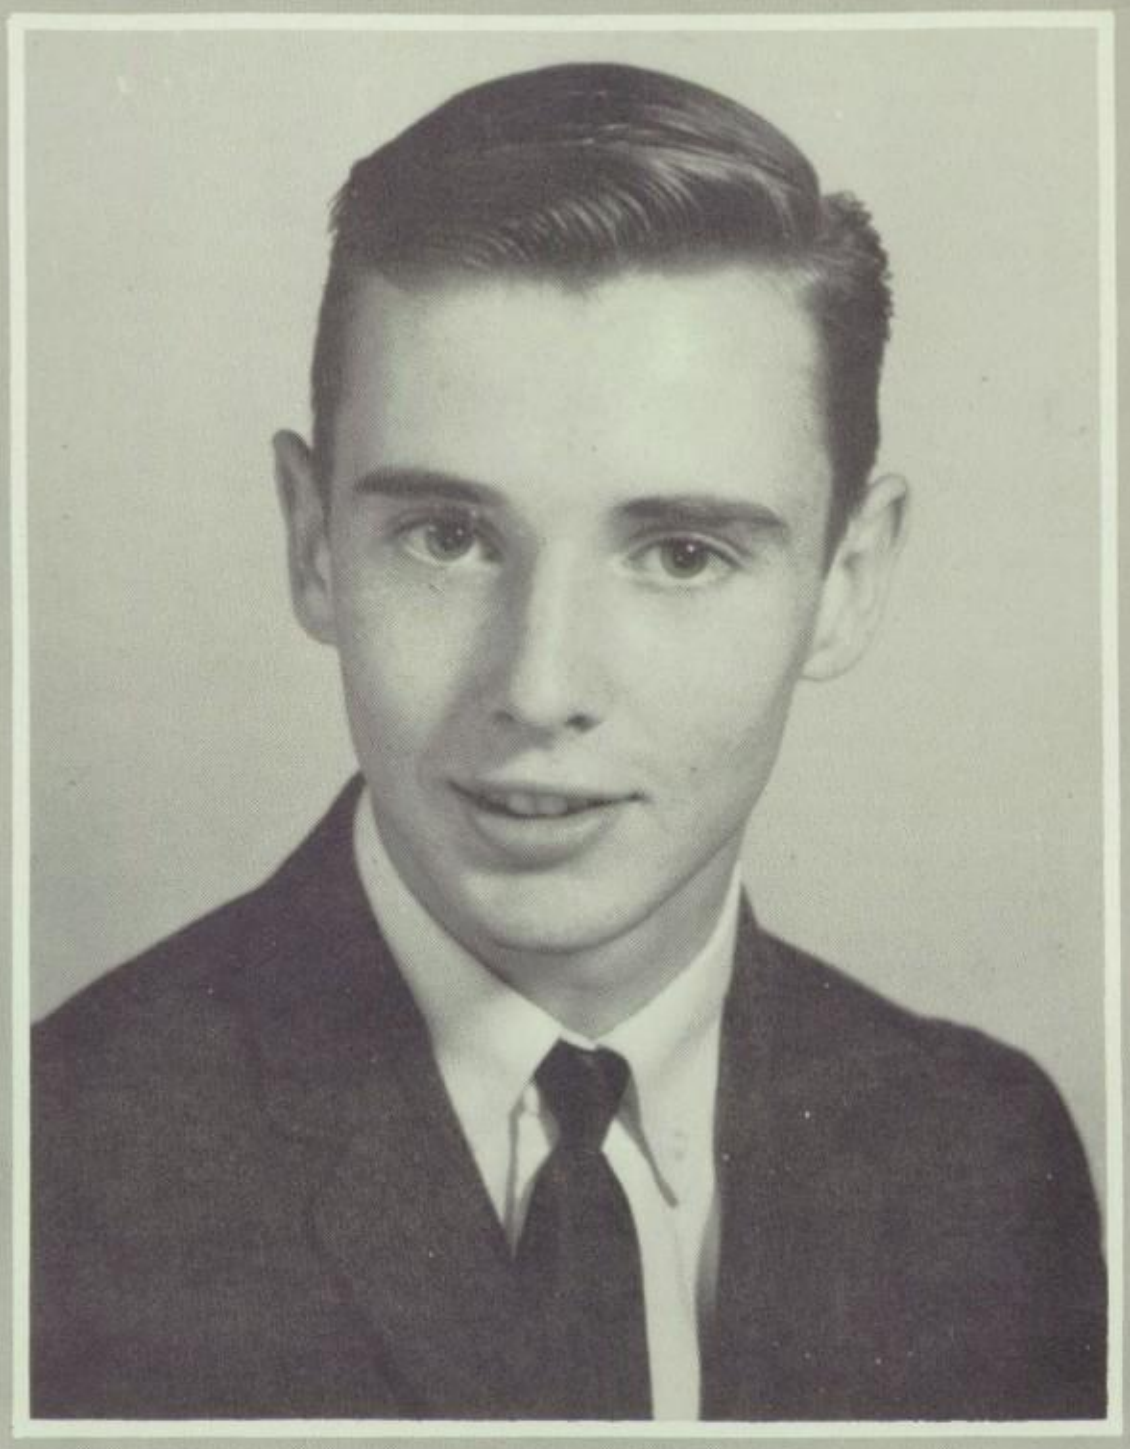
In Memoriam



MICHAEL LEE MORRIS
September 3, 1947 - March 16, 1965

To lose a friend is the greatest of all evils, but endeavor rather to rejoice that you possessed him than to mourn his loss.

Seneca

Through the death of Mike Morris, the students of Amherst County High School lost a valuable companion. Yet, as the sadness and sorrow grew less intense, fond memories began to take their place.

Mike was very energetic and was involved in many activities. He was active in the F.F.A., in the safety patrol, and in public speaking. His freshman year he served as an escort in the Homecoming Court. However, above all, he was devoted to farming. He knew the importance of agriculture and had chosen it as his career.

For a long time, many will miss Mike's good nature and the friendly greetings, they had received as they passed him in the hall. Many will miss working beside him as well as sharing hours of fun with him.

Some believe that when a person dies something also dies within the heart of each of his friends; but, Mike left his friends a legacy of happy memories as well as the priceless experience of having known him.

Administration

Mr. Berry and Mr. Campbell take time out from their usual chores to "check out" a gas truck which has come to the school.

This year eleven new teachers joined the faculty. The year was one of orientation for them; however, the new faces quickly blended with the familiar ones and no confusion disrupted the efficiency of the teaching staff at A.C.H.S.

While emphasizing important ideas and bringing about understanding, the faculty also had time to answer the questions of curious students and to share an occasional laugh with their classes. Their role did not stop after a day of classroom sessions or after a night of grading papers and making tests; their work encompassed smaller tasks such as serving as class sponsors, club sponsor, and chaperones at school functions.

An important change made in the schedules of the faculty was the distribution of classes to give each teacher an unencumbered period. This period had the two fold purpose of lightening the teacher's load and of giving each one a little extra time for the preparation or planning of classwork.

Although the faculty had a crowded slate of duties, they fulfilled each job and gave the students at Amherst County High every opportunity to complete a successful and profitable year.

School Board expands building program.

Mr. Tyler Fulcher
Superintendent of Schools

Mr. Jack Thomas
Chairman of the School Board

By providing a competent teaching staff and adequate facilities, the school board worked diligently to meet educational needs in Amherst County.

Mr. Herbert Camden retired from the board this year after many years of faithful service. Mr. John D. Smith, a former teacher in high school and college levels, succeeded him.

The work of the school board showed its true concern for the education of American youth.

Mrs. Marie Shrader shows Mr. Jack Thomas and Mr. Tyler Fulcher a copy of the minutes of the last School Board meeting.

Members of the Amherst County School Board: Mr. Calvin Irvin, Madison Heights; Mr. John Smith, Temperance; Mr. T. L. Wright, Courthouse; Mr. Edgar Fitzgerald, Pedlar.

The strength and efficiency of Amherst County High School was evidence of the dedication of its leader, Mr. Richard Lee. Mr. Lee held in his hands the reins with which he skillfully managed every phase of the school and its program. Establishing harmony between students and teachers, providing a balanced curriculum, and maintaining high moral standards throughout the school were a few of the major concerns which filled his busy day. Realizing that a leader must have cooperation, Mr. Lee took time to promote a friendly relationship among the students, faculty, and the administration.

Through his outstanding and wise management, Mr. Lee created an atmosphere wherein students prospered both mentally and morally.

Mr. Lee earns respect of all.

Mr. Anderson assumes greater administrative role.

The sharing of responsibilities of supervising the school, Mr. Howard Anderson, assistant principal, was an important member of the administration. For five periods each day he assisted the principal, Mr. Lee, in managing the many departments of the school. Some of his specific duties were serving as attendance officer and supervisor of the school's smoking and riding program.

Mr. Anderson also taught a physics course and found additional time in which to sponsor the Photography Club.

As both administrator and instructor, Mr. Anderson's good nature captured the admiration and friendship of the students.

Mrs. Polly Herion

Amherst County High School provided an abundance of work for its two secretaries, Mrs. Laura B. Herion and Mrs. Janet Thomas. The secretaries typed absentee slips and special notices for the convenience of the faculty each day. They handled the school's correspondence, took phone calls, and managed the school's filing system. Some of their other tasks were managing the lost and found department and assisting clubs by keeping their financial records on hand. The secretaries were always available to help students and teachers with their questions or request. Through their long hours of devoted assistance, the secretaries remain highly essential to the administration of the school.

Clicking typewriters, open ledgers, shorthand notebooks, and DE pay checks were all signs of business students hard at work.

Strengthened by the addition of personal typing, the business department continued to prepare students for successful careers. Office practice taught students to operate business etiquette. In distributive education, students combined classroom studies with actual working experience to gain valuable knowledge in business operation.

Realizing the importance of their jobs, instructors in business courses worked to prepare students properly for their chosen vocations.

English Department issues literary magazine.

This year, the eighth grade and freshman English classes placed special emphasis on the development of the fundamentals of grammar, spelling, and reading. The English II course emphasized vocabulary, mechanics of composition, style reading and literature. English III and IV provided experience in reading and understanding literature. The juniors concentrated on American literature, and the seniors studied English literature.

The speech class, offered to juniors and seniors, trained students in procedure for oral presentations.

By working on the debating team, by participating in the Forensic Meet, and by submitting poems, themes, and short stories to the Sleeping Giant, the school magazine, many students put their knowledge of English skills to work.

Music room improves Fine Arts Department.

The art department helped students to develop creative skills. Art students learned the fundamentals of drawing and painting. The special course in art crafts provided instruction for students interested in three-dimensional art. The art department entered exhibits in a Christmas display.

Through training in beginning chorus, advanced chorus, and band, the music department developed musical talent in many students. Chorus and Band students participated in Spring and Christmas concerts, festivals, assemblies and other school programs.

Realizing that the fine arts are a basic element in a cultural society, the fine arts department created greater appreciation of both art and music.

Library expands facilities.

Supplying audio-visual aids, reference material, and books of all sorts, the library was an indispensable link to a successful curriculum. A thousand new books strengthened the variety, as students checked out over one hundred and thirty books daily.

The library staff, aided by student assistants, also operated projectors used in classes and by clubs. Whether it was to read the latest magazine or to find needed information for a project, the seven hundred students who used the library daily benefited greatly from its services.

This year Latin was the foreign language chosen most often by eighth graders, freshmen, and sophomores. Latin I students learned the fundamentals of the language; Latin II students studied Caesar's Gallic Wars; and Latin III students studied orations of Cicero. French and Spanish students were primarily upperclassmen. Spanish I and French I courses trained students in writing and speaking the language; Spanish II and French II courses advanced these skills. Spanish and French students also studied the literature and civilization of the country wherein the languages originated.

The study of these languages provided background knowledge of the students' own language. Knowledge of these foreign languages also provided greater interest in people of other nations.

Guidance uses computer in scheduling.

Throughout the year, the guidance department worked devotedly, guiding students in making the correct decisions for their futures. A large part of their job was helping students choose the courses which would be the most beneficial for their planned careers. They assisted seniors in the choice of colleges and helped them with their applications. By setting up occupational files, they aided vocational students in selecting jobs.

Another job of the guidance counselors was supervising achievement tests and college board exams. They also spoke with students individually and collectively, encouraging them to do their best work.

No two people this year were more concerned with the futures of individual students than Mrs. Brown and Mr. Thomas, guidance counselors.

The physical education program this year was an extremely vigorous one. In the fall and spring both boys and girls tested their fitness in physical tests prepared by a national council. Students experienced the importance of team-work and the fun and hard work of competition. With the instructors' supervision, students competed in and learned the fundamentals of track, football, softball, volleyball, and basketball. In the classroom students acquired knowledge of good health, first-aid, and driver education.

By developing alertness and athletic skills, the physical education department helped to develop firm minds and bodies in A.C.H.S. students.

Whether working with food preparation or making a first garment, girls in home economics classes developed skills in home management. Girls learned about interior decoration and other fields by actual experience. The Home Economics teachers also instructed students in the effective use of leisure time and baby care. By entering exhibits in the Lynchburg Farm Show and in a home economics show at Christmas, these girls displayed many worthy accomplishments.

Realizing that homemaking would one day be a part of their lives, girls pursuing both academic and vocational tracks included it in their schedule.

Agriculture develops farming skills.

Participating in contests in forestry, tractor driving, public speaking, and dairy judging, boys in agriculture classes showed their knowledge that they had acquired through their studies. Besides the basic skills in farming, the shop courses taught welding, painting, woodworking, and plumbing. Agriculture students made field trips to the Sweet Briar Dairy and the State Fair.

Math courses this year centered around the concept that students should reason with fundamental theorems, axioms, and formulas of mathematics.

Geometry students were able to better understand the plane and solid phases of their course by making geometric patterns and figures. Advanced math students studied trigonometry and algebra which served as a preparatory study for college math.

Many students measured their knowledge of math in achievement tests, college board exams, and national math competitions.

The Science Department emphasized the importance of scientific knowledge in this space age. The general science course for eighth graders helped to give the students a better understanding of their environment. The four lab sciences, earth and space science, biology, chemistry, and physics gave students a chance to experiment and discover for themselves some of the marvels that have amazed others for centuries. Many students displayed their interest in science through complicated projects and exhibits for the Science Fair. Because of the interest which the courses aroused, many students chose to pursue a career in science and began to prepare for this career at A.C.H.S.

Social Studies creates awareness of world.

By means of debates and local speakers, instructors in social studies created greater interest in history and government. In government classes, field trips to the poles on election day and a model session of Congress, showing the process by which a bill becomes a law, helped students to use their knowledge practically. Economics courses taught about the free enterprise system and ways to earn, spend, and save money. By learning about the past, students acquired knowledge about the development of their culture.

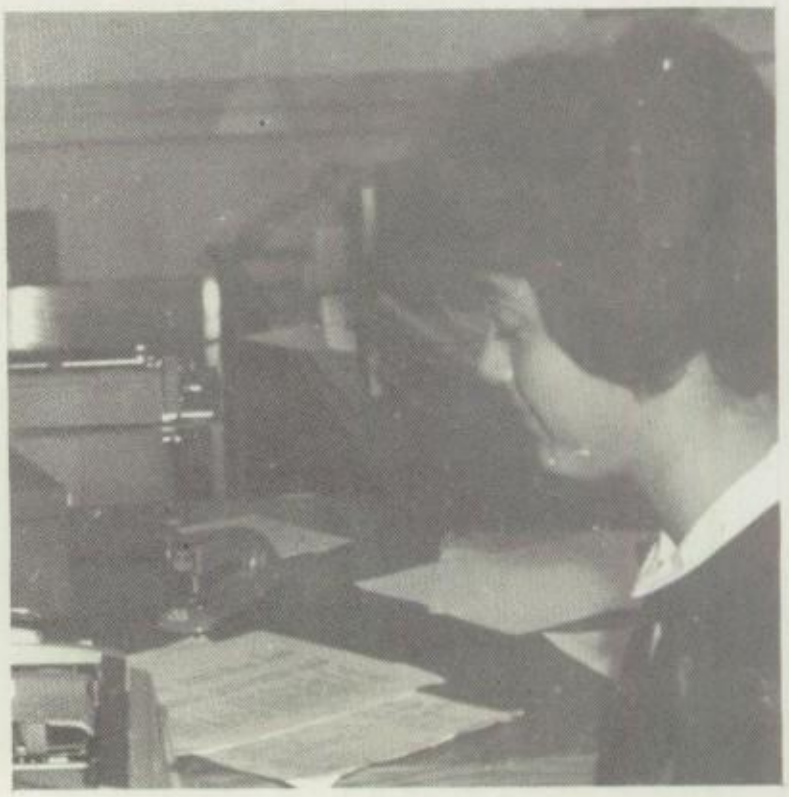
Office workers aid secretaries; cafeteria staff keeps students well fed.

Donating their study hall time, several students worked in the school office and gained valuable experience in business procedures and in the operation of business machines. Typing, running errands, counting money, and sorting mail were a few of their numerous duties. By mimeographing and distributing absentee slips and bulletins, they reduced the chores of the secretaries. By assisting with many other jobs, these business students helped the office run more efficiently.

Sandra Brightwell types a bulletin in the main office.



The six women composing the cafeteria staff worked diligently to give students warm and nutritious meals. They prepared varied lunches each week including special treats near Thanksgiving and Christmas. Their quick service enabled students to eat their meals leisurely. In addition to preparing the food, their responsibilities included keeping the kitchen and lunchroom clean.

The cafeteria staff often worked overtime, preparing foods for special events such as the Junior-Senior Banquet.

The ladies in the cafeteria performed their job cheerfully and well each day, making themselves an indispensable and appreciated part of the school.

The Cafeteria Staff: Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Mays, Mrs. Winn, Mrs. Parr, Mrs. Parr, and Mrs. Falls.

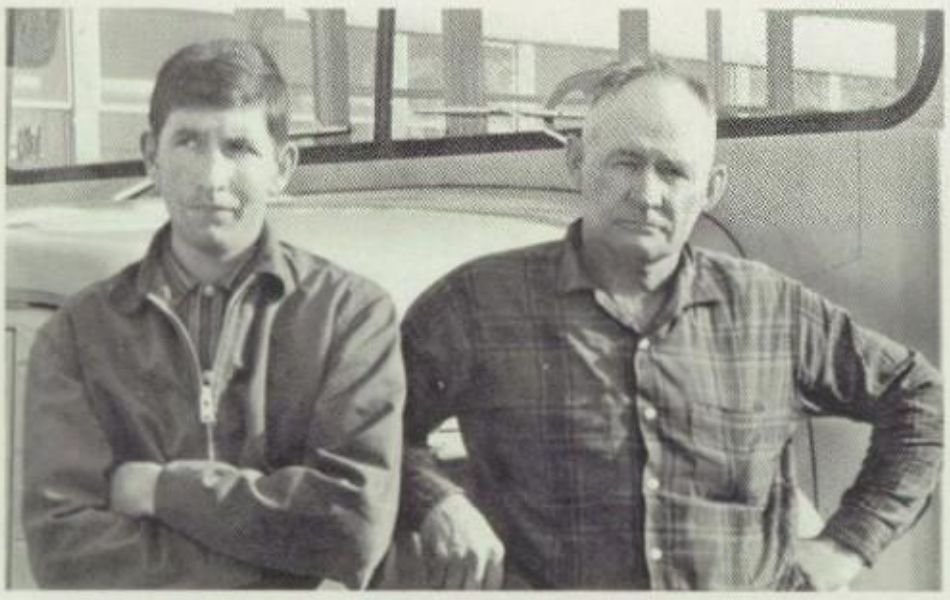
Bus Drivers maintain good safety record.

The majority of students at A.C.H.S. traveled to school on school buses this year. In bad weather with a bus full of noisey students, the job of the men, women, and student drivers was not a simple one. However, the vigilant and skillful drivers performed their task with the utmost caution. The drivers were also responsible for the upkeep of the buses. They kept the buses swept and washed, and made sure that they were in good working condition.

Although the seriousness of their job placed heavy responsibilities upon them, the bus drivers were always cheerful and friendly to the students whose safety they guarded.

Mr. Burch and Mr. Mays are ready to refuel the buses.

Mr. Worley and Mr. Massie wait for three o'clock when they carry students home.



Janitors: John Beverly, Billy Coles, and James Smith. Maid: Viola Davis.

John Beverly and Billy Coles repair a locker which has been broken.

Janitors' tasks are many and varied.

One thousand and more busy students trampling the floors, dropping papers, and fingerprinting walls and windows, created a tremendous clean-up job this year. However, the maid and three janitors capably managed to repair the superficial damage made each day by the students.

Some of their other duties were tending the lawn, unjamming lockers, and performing the extra jobs which accompany school functions.

Although students often took the neat appearance of the school for granted, the custodian staff worked long and hard to maintain cleanliness and order.

Seniors

Sandra Brockman and Mildred Rudacille assist Mrs. Phillips in counting the Seniors' magazine money.

Mike Harrell seems to be thoroughly confused by the duties required of him on Latin Club initiation day.

As graduation approached, the seniors surveyed their past twelve years with mixed emotions of parting sadness and satisfying accomplishment. Memories of the fun, hard work, and good times of their school years filled their thoughts. For many, the fondest memories came from their senior year. High magazine sales and concessions from the football games boosted spirits during the first half of the year; the Senior Play, the trip to New York, and the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom highlighted the second half.

In their brief years at A.C.H.S., this year's seniors saw the school grow not only in physical structure but also in enrollment and curriculum. They watched the athletic teams improve and achieve success. Each one participated in clubs, in sports, or in the S.C.A., and some had their first taste of leadership.

The seniors grew in understanding and wisdom under the devoted guidance and instruction of the faculty. They acquired the fundamental tools of knowledge which prepared them for further education, or immediate vocations.

Graduation almost a reality, the work of their high school years acquired a new significance for the seniors. They began to feel a deeper gratefulness to the teachers whose tests and quizzes they had dreaded and whose homework assignments had seemed endless. They began to see all the activities and events of their high school years as unforgettable milestones in their lives.

Underclassmen

Two Eighth Grade students study their science assignment.

This year a week never passed in which work on some special project or activity was not evident at A.C.H.S. The progress and achievement was due largely to the drive and determination of the underclassmen.

This year was indeed a busy one for the Junior Class. The highlights for the Juniors were the Junior Play, the Ring Dance, and Junior-Senior banquet and prom. Many of them took achievement and college board exams. The Juniors worked industriously in their studies, endeavoring to become fully prepared for their last and very important year of high school—the senior year.

The Sophomore Class had a year filled with many new challenges. Many participated in varsity sports for the first time. Those who had maintained high scholastic averages received their reward by induction into the Beta Club. The sophomores climaxed the year by electing officers for their coming year.

With a year of orientation behind them, the freshmen felt more a part of the high school. Many participated in school sports and took a greater interest in club activities. With much anticipation about becoming "Swell, Sweet Sophomores", the freshmen looked forward to their next year at A.C.H.S.

The eighth grade began the long streak of five years which would lead them through hours of enlightenment, study, and participation in many activitives. Their period of adjustment was short; and their promise as an industrious group of students was great.

Activities

Linda Taylor, Frances Taylor, and David Tyree display materials which D. E. C. A. used at the club rally at Liberty High School.

Mrs. Meeks, Leah Settle, and Nancy Watson prepare several pages of the Amethyst for the next deadline.

Students at Amherst County High School received a wider and more comprehensive education through their active participation in clubs and school publications. Some school organizations provided views into future careers; others provided chances for further achievement in fields interesting to the individual student.

Club projects centered primarily around services to the school and community. Many clubs held interesting and thought provoking assemblies; many others prepared Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, worked at Lynchburg Training School, entertained at Ryan's Nursing Home and worked on the bloodmobile and held charity drives. Some club activities which were especially helpful to the school were managing showcases, providing a student-tutoring service, managing teachers' classes when necessary, and helping to run and maintain the library.

Sponsoring dances and providing interesting group projects, clubs were also an important source of entertainment for the students.

This year each school organization had at least one hard-working teacher behind it. The sponsors were always willing and able to lend help and advice whenever they could. Although students presided at meetings and carried out the projects, the sponsors did a large part of the planning.

The combination of energy, cooperation, efficiency, and leadership at A.C.H.S. produced a year of highly successful projects and activities.

S.C.A. sends relief packages to Viet Nam.

The S.C.A., the voice of the students of A.C.H.S., began their year in a big way by sponsoring a "friendly" contest and a "Get Acquainted Dance" on September 4. During the first days of school the S.C.A. also helped with the used book store. To raise funds, the members of the S.C.A. sold stationery, Lancer jackets, sweatshirts, pompoms, and Lancer stickers.

Starting a Red Cross chapter at school gave boys and girls a chance to work at Lynchburg Training School, to help with the high school-sponsored bloodmobile, and to send packages to the children in Viet Nam.

As the year progressed, the S.C.A. stressed the importance of honor both in the school and in the community and placed framed copies of the honor code in all the classrooms. By holding devotions in the homerooms and in P.T.A. meetings, the S.C.A. helped to develop a more spiritual atmosphere for the mature growth of the students.

In the spring, this organization held a charity drive and contributed the money to local worthy causes. Other spring projects were a talent show and student directories.

Under the firm leadership of its officers and advisor, the Student Cooperative Association completed a highly successful year.

Yearbook staff emphasizes many

The 1965-66 Amethyst staff had a year-long job in producing a book that would hold all the memories of another busy year at A.C.H.S. Each day, the staff worked to produce a bigger and better Amethyst. An increased number of pages gave better coverage to school activities; the addition of blank autograph pages pleased the student body. Two page divider sheets and the use of a different style of type added a more impressive look to the yearbook. The staff also employed professional photographers to take club pictures. However, one of the most important changes in this year's Amethyst was the new aerial photograph of the school.

Staff members gave up their study halls as well as many other extra hours, soliciting ads, planning and putting together the layout, and taking pictures, writing copy, proofreading, and typing. Everyone worked co-operatively, realizing the importance of each individual job.

At the end of the year, when the finished yearbooks arrived at A.C.H.S., the staff unveiled the 1965-66 Amethyst at the yearbook assembly. The assembly held tense moments for the staff as they waited for the approval of the student body. Finally the Amethyst staff was able to relax and feel the satisfaction of having successfully completed their job.

Amherite features changes and additions;

The staff of the 1965-66 Amherite, the Student newspaper was composed of twenty-two members-editors, reporters, and managers. As part of the all-new Amherite look, the mast was changed to include a Lancer emblem, and the editorial cartoon was revised to support the lead editorial. The October issue of the Amherite included a special four page salute to A.C.H.S.'s championship football team. A member of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Southern Interscholastic Press Association, the Amherite entered competition sponsored by these two groups. In April, several of the staff members joined International Quill and Scroll, an honorary journalism society.

for Klassroom Kwiz

The Beta Club was indeed an active and valuable organization which contributed much to A.C.H.S. The members of this club focused their attention upon leadership and academic achievement.

Showcases, an assembly program, and serving refreshments at College Night were a few of the projects undertaken by Beta members at school. Among their fund-raising activities were car washes, bottle collecting, and bake sales. Projects for the community included trips to Ryan's Nursing Home and Lynchburg Training School. The club also sent delegates to the annual Beta Convention and Klassroom Kwiz.

Throughout the year, the members of the Beta Club stressed honesty and the importance of academic achievement.

Commercial Club visits local bank.

This year, the theme of the Commercial Club's meetings centered around developing competent business leadership. Another aim of the club was to give members further insight into business occupations and thus to aid them in choosing their careers. Club members visited the Amherst Fidelity Bank to observe the bank employees at work.

Many of the Commercial Club members assisted in the office, and provided clerical assistance for teachers.

Students who worked part-time composed the membership of DECA.

DECA members attended a rally at Liberty High School and observed National Distributive Education Week in the fall. During this time, members sponsored a bulletin board display and appeared on a local radio program. Later in the year, the club maintained a "Buy and Sell" bulletin board. The DECA climaxed the year with their Employer-Employee Banquet.

Future Farmers Club visits State Fair.

William Gouldthorpe
President

Boys interested in making agriculture a career composed the membership of the Future Farmers of America. Field trips during the year included a fall trip to the State Fair in Richmond. Agriculture students also participated in contests in dairy, crop, and forestry judging. By participating in activities such as the Lynchburg Farm Show, F.F.A. members had a chance to pursue their interests in farming and forestry.

F.H.A. sponsors Mother-Daughter Banquet.

Judy Taylor
President

Many of the girls in the Home Economics classes were interested in the F.H.A. club because it offered opportunities to put their knowledge to work. In the fall, the girls in the club entered exhibits in the Lynchburg Farm Show. With the art department, they prepared an exhibit of homemade Christmas decorations.

F.H.A. club programs for the year centered around morals and manners. By trying together the many aspects of home life, this club fulfilled its purpose of making good homemakers for the future.

Drama Club presents play in festival.

Mildred Rudacille
President

To foster an interest in forensics and dramatics were the goals of this year's Drama Club. Varied programs with speakers and with short plays presented by members helped the club to maintain interest in their meeting.

Working with the music department, the Drama Club presented a Christmas Play. Members also participated in the one act play and helped the S.C.A. with an honor assembly.

By helping students appreciate the dramatic arts, this club helped create and nurture the talent of many students.

French Club celebrates Mardi Gras.

The presentation of the Mardi Gras was the climax of French Club activities this year. This day of merrymaking and feasting included a parade of French Club members dressed in peasant attire, led by a king and a queen.

In club meetings, records, games, films and speakers helped students to get a clear picture of French culture.

F.T.A. holds annual Faculty tea.

Martha McConnell
President

This year programs in F.T.A. meetings included special speakers, films, and reports about the teaching profession of the future.

All the members took turns serving as guides at College Night, Parents' Night, and on Orientation Day. During National Education Week, the club presented an assembly program and also prepared a bulletin board. The club also sent delegates to the annual F.T.A. convention. Their fund-raising projects included a bake sale and dance.

To uphold Christian standards was the goal of this year's Hi-Y Club. In the fall, the club held an installation service for officers and new members. Later, members sponsored a Powder Puff football game, a Beatnik Hop, and an assembly program. By attending conferences, members learned more about achievement of club goals.

In the spring, several delegates made a trip to the Model General Assembly. This activity climaxed a busy year.

Introducing its members into an atmosphere of friendship, loyalty, and reverence, the Jr. Hi. Y. and Jr. Tri-Hi-Y molded eighth and ninth grade boys and girls into well adjusted high school students. Led by their sponsors, members tried to create, maintain, and extend Christian character throughout the home, school, and community. The Jr. Hi-Y sold Lancer pennants and donated the money to a worthy organization. The Jr. Tri-Hi-Y took fruit baskets to needy families during Thanksgiving.

Latin Club's culture enriched by films.

Presided over by consuls and other officers with Roman titles, Latin Club meetings had a form somewhat like ancient Roman assemblies. Club members saw a film of the chariot race held the preceding year. In November, the Latin Club saw films of some of the ruins of Ancient Greece. To add a little Roman flavor to their meetings, members often sang familiar American songs translated into Latin. To conclude their year, the Latin Club had an assembly program.

Improving service in the library and keeping books in good repair were the goals of this year's Library Club. Assistants operated projectors used in classrooms and clubs.

Projects included trips to the Amherst and Sweet Briar libraries, a new book showing for teachers, and recataloging. Inventory and remodeling the periodical section of the library were other duties.

Caring for eight thousand books was not an easy job, and it required much time on the part of the librarian and her assistants.

Lancer lettermen comprise Monogram Club.

Jerry Camden
President

Students who earned a letter in a varsity sport were eligible for membership in the Monogram Club. This year members completed the Jerry Burch Memorial by the presentation of a new loud speaker system for the football field.

The club was also responsible for the decorations, music and court election of the Homecoming Festivities. The proceeds from the dance helped to buy the letters and awards for the athletes.

By helping with the preparation of sports banquets and with other projects, the Monogram Club proved that it could make contributions in other phases of school life as well as the sports.

To maintain order and to help in time of need were the important jobs of this years' Safety Patrol. These members, appointed by bus drivers, made certain that students could safely board their buses. They also maintained order on the trips to and from school.

In club meetings, members saw films to increase their knowledge of safety measures. At the end of the year, the club recognized outstanding members for their accomplishments.

Students with an interest in science helped fulfill their quest for knowledge by membership in the Science Club. In the fall, members took the annual Science Club trip and visited many places in the Norfolk area: American Oil Refinery, Ford Motor's Assembly Plant, Gloucester Point Research Center and the Mariners Museum.

Later in the year, this club sponsored a Science Fair, which gave students the valuable experience in experimentation and project work. The club also held an assembly and a dance in February.

This year the aid of Spanish Club members was to create more interest in the Spanish language. In club meetings, members learned more about the background and customs of the Spanish-speaking peoples. During the year, the club invited Spanish speakers to take part in their meetings. Spanish club members often provided Spanish music and skits for club programs. The club also held its annual initiation of new members; and during the second semester, the club held a dance and provided a program for one of the assemblies.

Many activities kept members of the Tri-Hi-Y busy this year. The club observed Tri-Hi-Y week and held their annual induction and candlelight service for new members. By having Friday morning devotions and by showing a film about smoking to the students, the club added much to the moral education of the student body.

The fund-raising projects of the Club were a Powder Puff football game and Beatnik Hop. With money from these events, club members prepared Christmas baskets for needy families and financed representation to the Model General Assembly and conferences at Rustburg and Liberty High School.

The members of the Photography Club strived to improve their own photography and to promote greater interest in the use of the camera. From guest speakers and through discussions, members learned the basic techniques of picture development. To encourage others to take more pictures, the club sponsored a photography contest. Many members gained further experience in the art of photography by working on the staff of school publications.

Athletics

Mr. Seal and two officials from the University of North Carolina watch Lloyd Martin as he signs the agreement for receiving a four year scholarship for his outstanding performance in football.

Athletics have attracted interest of all students, faculty, and alumni of Amherst County High School. Participation in varsity sports has become quite an exciting part of high school life. For most of the students, the opportunity to attend the school athletics has provided excitement for them as well as given the teams spirit and moral support.

The football team added a real spark to athletic competition by giving the school its first District Championship since the school's founding. The Lancers displayed not only leadership on the gridiron but also a special quality which was only possessed by real champions.

Sparked by the football teams example, the basketball squad ended the cage season with a fine record by traveling to the tournament. Amherst has entered a new era of competitive sports. The other sports have attracted many more athletics to Amherst and have offered a better chance for student participation on a varsity level.

The records set by previous teams have been broken and reset many times, exemplary of Amherst's improving athletic program. Better technique and more improved facilities will continue to improve the Lancer image; as the school grows in spirit and size, so will the Athletic department continue to supply the teams necessary to make Amherst the leader in sports as well as academics.

Roger Thacker receives a trophy from Pres Brown's in Lexington for being the most improved lineman on the championship football team.

The Amherst County Lancers celebrated their tenth anniversary by giving the school its first District Championship. Compiling an excellent 9-0-1 record, the Lancers showed the reason for their winning type of football by putting forth their best in every effort. Led by the explosive offense and always determined defense, the Lancers proved themselves to be "Champs" in offensive scoring as well as in the District. Mr. Tom Berry, who has never seen a losing season at Amherst, taught various members of the team techniques they will use in future collegiate play. Backed up by a capable staff of coaches—Mr. John Seal, Mr. Gerald Thomas, and Mr. Don Thompson—the team advanced in every respect.

Led by their staunch offense and always determined defense, the Baby Lancers compiled an outstanding 4-2-2 record. Losing by not more than 7 points in any single encounter, the defense pulled several games out of the fire of defeat. This ability to turn defeat into victory proved the "Baby Lancers" were ready for positions on the varsity Lancer squad.

Headed by their new coach, Mr. Don Thompson, the eighth grade football squad showed outstanding improvement during the short schedule. Even though the boys were small in stature, they displayed high spirits on as well as off the field. Members of the team who had done exceptionally well were rewarded at the end of the season by being advanced to the Junior Varsity Eleven. Sparked by a new coach, some fine shooting sophomores, and a pair of co-captains who were outstanding leaders, the Amherst cagers brought forth an excellent 17-1 record in regular season play. The Lancer squad not only had the greatest starting quintet but also possessed a second team which no team surpassed. Leading the district in defense and having an always "hustling offense," the Lancers raced through the regular season like real "champs". Advancing to the postseason District IV tournament as the top seeded team, the Lancers were upset in the semifinals. The 1966 Amherst basketball team not only proved that they were quick and agile on the floor, but also exhibited a type of sportsmanship that every true Lancer fan could be proud of.

An inexperienced Lancerette basketball team, under the direction of their new coach, Mrs. Brenda Hyman, came on strongly in the last half of the 1965-66 season to finish the year with a 3-11 record. Giving the Northern Division's leading team a tough struggle and defeating two of their last three apponents proved the Lancerettes' ability to disregard previous losses and to maintain their intense desire to win. Despite losing several contests by rather large margins, the Lancerettes never lost their spirit and drive, enabling them to complete the season on a winning note.

Throughout the season, the individual scoring was very well-balanced among the starting forwards.

Losing only two seniors, the girls' basketball team is expected to be a strong contender next year with many of the other district squads who will be without the services of their top scorers.

Close losses prevent winning season.

Only several close losses prevented the "Baby Lancers" from compiling a winning record. With the addition of a J.V. cheerleading squad, the junior varsity team seemed to possess more pep than ever before. These future stars gained much experience and knowledge of the practical fundamentals which will benefit their play in coming years on the varsity team.

The Eighth Grade basketball team kept alive a three year winning record by compiling a 7-2 season record. The quick moving offense proved to be the greatest aspect of the teams' winning ways while the tight defense was at times unyielding. This group of eighth graders learned and displayed techniques which will be useful to them in future years.

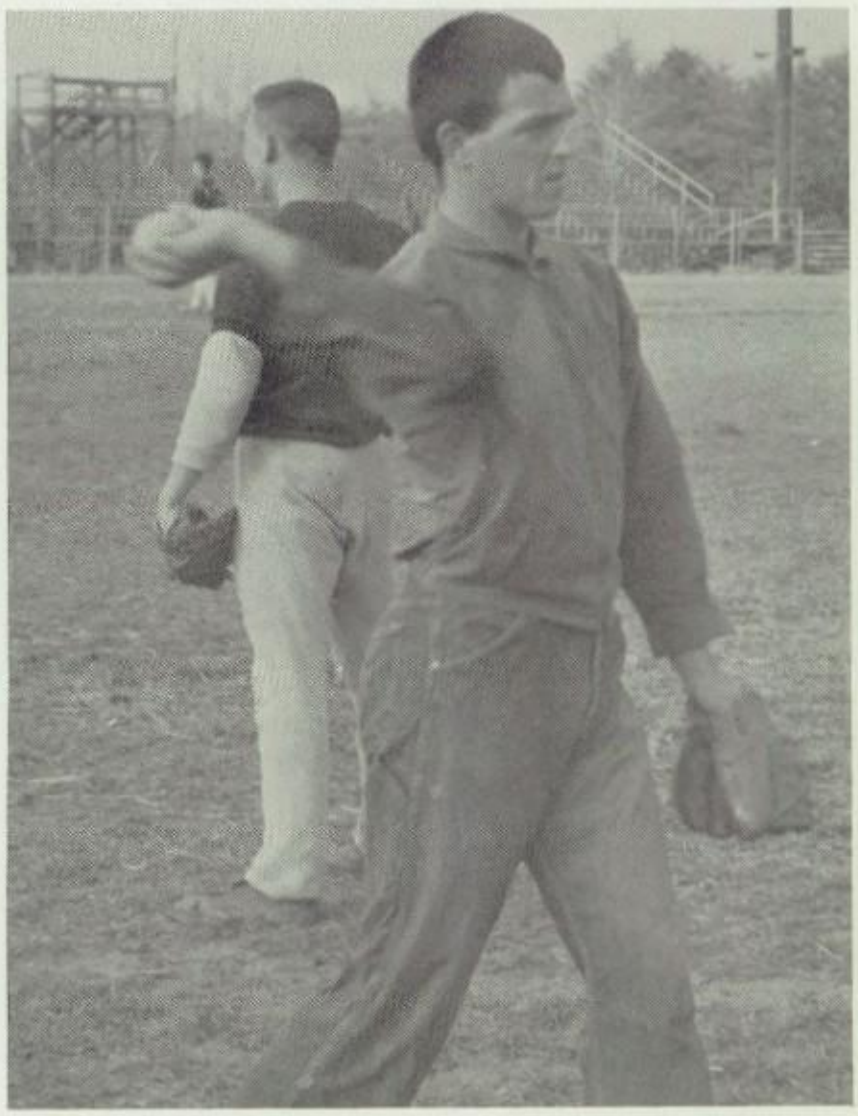
With the aid of nine returning lettermen, the Amherst County Lancers baseball team exhibited good hitting as well as strong pitching to finish high in the standings. Led by an excellent coach and a powerful pitching staff, the Lancer nine compiled a fine record.

The team, which finished second in the Northern Division the preceding year, was headed not only by the returning starters but also by a second team. Because of a slightly longer schedule than previous years, more fans were able to witness the 1966 baseball team. The Lancer team possessed and displayed a type of sportsmanship that carried them to victories not only on but also off the diamond.



John Banton and Melvin Carter warm-up their throwing arms in preseason practice.

Softball team meets district foes

In the second season of district competition, the Lancerette softball team practiced and played on the Amherst American Legion field. During the 1965 season, the Lancerettes established a 4-4 record, splitting the two games with each of their four opponents. Many new faces appeared on the field this year, particularly in the infield because of the loss of five starting seniors.

Under the able leadership of their new coach, Mrs. Brenda Hyman, the dedicated group of girls provided their own transportation to and from practice sessions and games. Throughout the season, the softball players displayed outstanding spirit and desire to win although no district recognition was awarded to any team. Virginia High School League officials could not be secured for the games, so each home team was responsible for supplying umpires. In all cases, the schools selected excellent and unbiased umpires.

Lancer track program interests

David Tyree flings himself over the high jump bar.

Even though the track team was young and inexperienced toward the first of the season, the members progressed as the season continued. With their new coaches, Mr. Don Thompson and Mr. John Seal, the trackmen always hustled and maintained a constant desire to win. With the aid of the physical education program, the members of the team were allowed to practice during gym classes. Because of this permission and the continuous practice during early spring, the team was in excellent form by the time of the starting meet.

Wrestling, a completely new winter sport at Amherst, proved itself to be one of the surprisingly successful sports. Headed by a capable coach and a "scrappy" desire to win, the Lancer matmen progressed throughout the season. Encouraged by two previous exhibition matches and a student match, wrestling began to increase in popularity among the students, faculty, and alumni. The wrestling squad, which met some tough opponents, qualified for a position in the state tournment by winning all district contests. Even though this trip to Charlottesville for the State Meet was an innovation to the squad, they did extremely well by ranking sixth. Not only the fine exhibitions of wrestling but also the unsurpassed actions of sportsmanship exhibited by the team helped this new sport to excell.

1965 Football Cheerleaders: Kneeling: Pat Coleman, Gayle Ogden, Head Cheerleader, Judy Trexler. Standing: Glenna Jordan, Betsy Wright, Ann Holloran, Vonnie Herion, Brenda Leftwich, Jan Woody, and Libbey Hodges.

In the center of all excitement of athletic contests at A. C. H. S. this year was a group of very enthusiastic girls. Although this organization was small compared to the size of their job, their determination and fervor enabled the cheerleaders to create and maintain bouyant school spirit. Throughout football and basketball seasons, the varsity cheerleading squad spent much time learning the cheers which helped lead the teams to victory. Working with Mrs. Brenda Hyman and Miss Evelyn Sullivan, the cheerleaders helped to make pep and good sportsmanship a part of athletics at Amherst County High.

J. V. Cheerleaders boost school spirit.

The Baby Lancers received a valuable addition this year — the Junior Varsity Cheerleading Squad. These spirited girls cheered the teams on to victory and promoted greater interest in J. V. sports. This new activity provided more girls with an opportunity to share in the work and excitement of being cheerleaders. Having worked industriously throughout the year with their coaches, Mrs. Brenda Hyman and Miss Sharon Wirt, these girls gained the experience essential for stronger varsity cheerleading squads of the future. The newly organized J. V. Cheerleaders were another example of pep and enthusiasm of the students at A.C.H.S.

The J. V. Cheerleaders eagerly await the next opportunity for them to perform a cheer.

Betsy Banton, Susan Padgett, and Betty Meeks cheer the J. V. Basketball team on to victory.

Features

Leah Settle serves punch to a group of parents and students at College Night.

Patricia Thacker, Senior Attendant, and Deborah Henderson, Eighth Grade Attendant, are presented at the Homecoming Dance.

No school year at Amherst County High School would ever be complete without the annual features. These features include: Homecoming, the Junior Play, the Junior-Senior Banquet, the Senior Play, and the Prom.

The Homecoming festivities were eagerly awaited by all. For the A.C.H.S. alumni, it was a time when they were treated to a fine football game followed by the traditional Homecoming Dance. For the students, it was a time of much excitement, as, often times, the Homecoming game is the turning point of the season.

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet in the spring was a time when the Upperclassmen could assemble for a delicious meal, followed by an evening's entertainment. For the Seniors, the highlight was the reading of the Last Will and Testament.

Each year, the Junior and Senior Plays give the members of the respective classes a chance to "show off" their theatrical talents. Through hard work and long hours, the backstage crews, producers, and casts produced plays which were enjoyed by all.

The Junior-Senior Prom was probably the most eagerly awaited dance of the year. The romantic atmosphere created by the picturesque setting and the soft music of the band made the Junior-Senior Prom a memorable occasion.

Bill Garbee, Larry Mays, Jakcie Craft, and Gayle Webster admire their rings. Receiving the ring is usually the highlight of the Junior year.

Norman Moses "turns the corner" for a big gain against Tunstall, the Homecoming opponent.

The Annual Homecoming Dance was held on September 24 and 25. The "groovy beat" of The Lancers, a local combo, helped to create a gala atmosphere and make the dance a success. The highlight of the evening was the entrance of the Homecoming Court and the crowning of the King and Queen.

The football game between the Amherst Lancers and Tunstall Trojans was a one-sided affair. The Lancers' explosive offense and their staunch defense overwhelmed the Trojans.

Lancers score 25-3 Homecoming victory.

Benita Dodd, Frances Taylor, Gayle Webster, and Pat Thacker wait to be introduced as members of the Homecoming Court at the Homecoming dance.

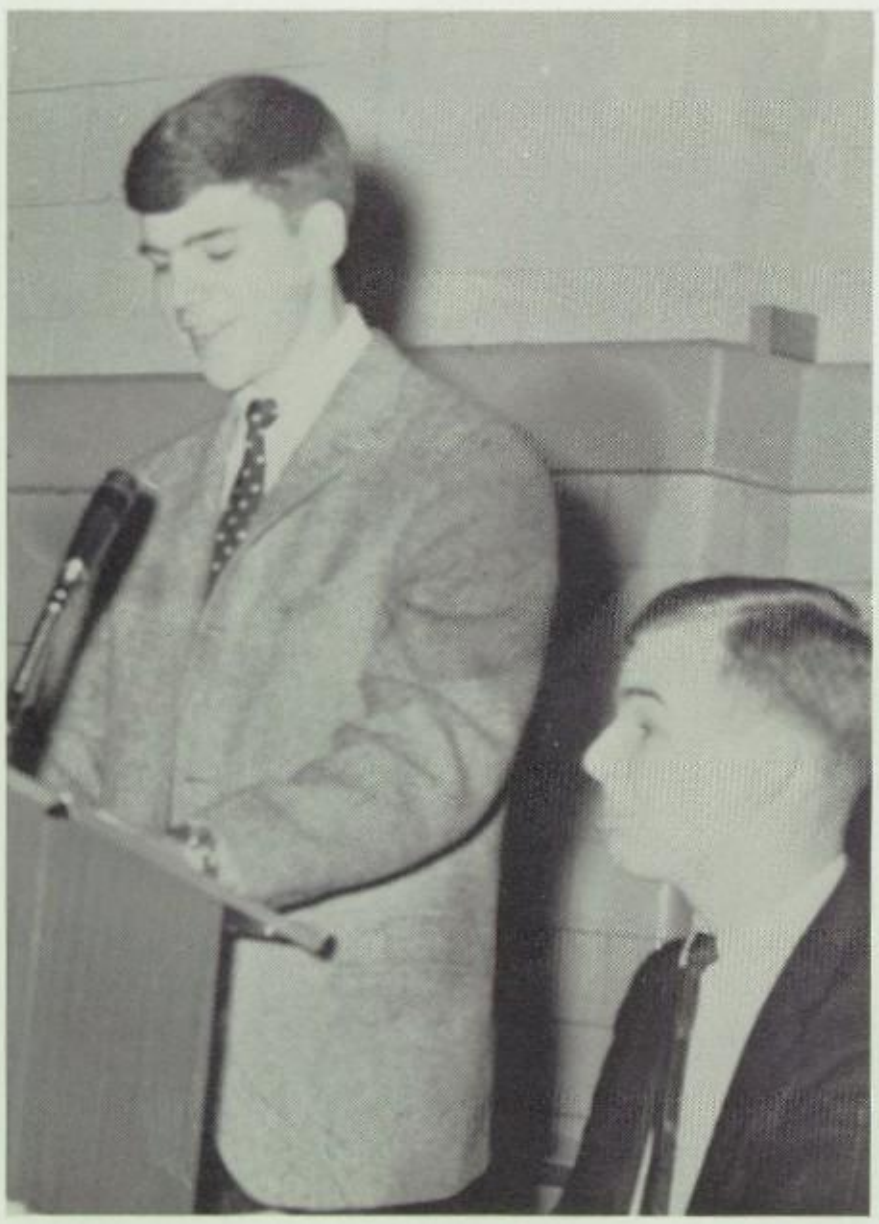
Queen Gayle Ogden and King Lloyd Martin lead the Homecoming Court in the first dance of the evening.

On March 10, 1966, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet sponsored by the Junior Class was held. This year's theme for the banquet was "Our Hearts are Young and Gay."

After a delicious meal, addresses on "Challenges to Meet" and "Promises to Keep" were made by the Junior and Senior Class presidents, respectively. Between the addresses, the audience was treated to a song presented by members of the Glee Club. After remarks by Mr. Tyler Fulcher, Superintendent of Amherst County Schools, the banquet ended with the reading of the Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1966.

Beverly Wright, along with other juniors toasts the future success of the seniors.

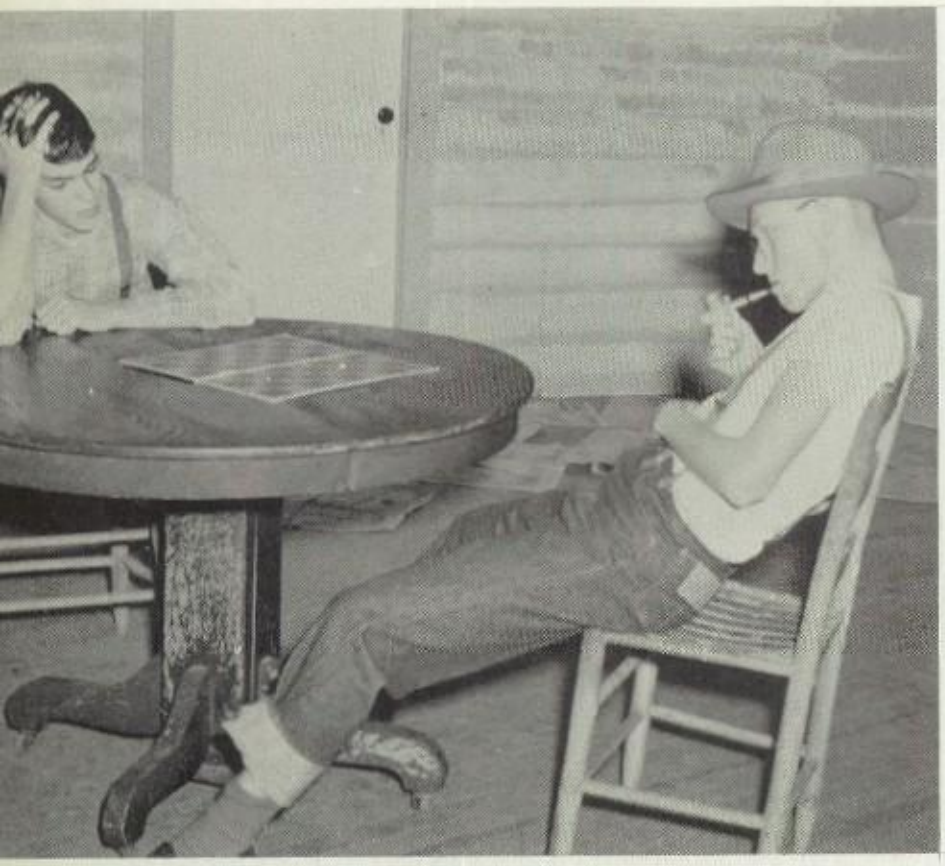
Banquet theme focuses on "Our Hearts are Young and Gay."



Ted Campbell reads part of the seniors' Last Will as Larry Mays appears to be flabbergasted.

Phil Chenault pours coffee for Jane Feagans at the banquet.

Those seated at the head table at the banquet eagerly "dig into" the meal.

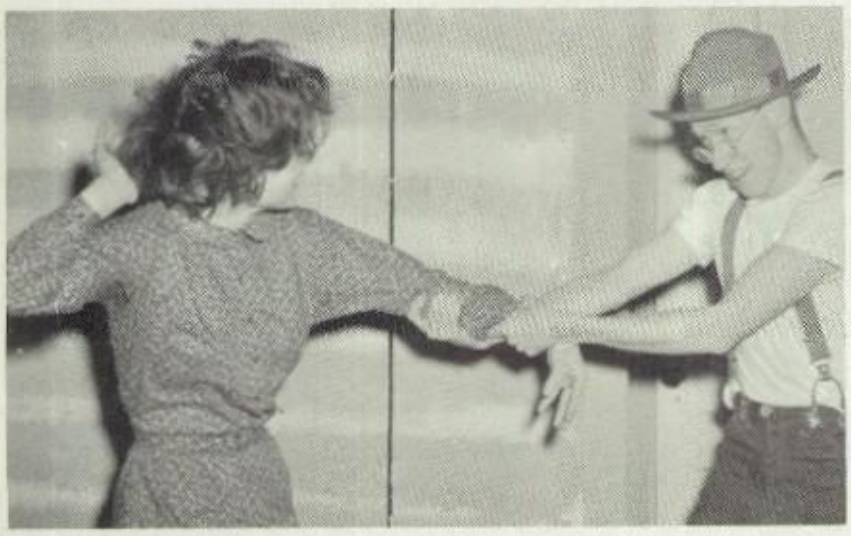


Obeey (Ted Campbell) and Paw (Mike Harrell) contemplate their next move in an all-night game of checkers.

On March 18, 1966, the Senior Class of 1966 presented "Hillbilly Weddin'", a comedy in three acts. The hard work of both the cast and the backstage crew created a memorable production.

The play centered around a hillbilly family, Mr. and Mrs. Belsnickle, and their six daughters. Because Juney Lou, a younger sister, was going to get married, Paw attempted to trap Ronald Maxwell, a wealthy young man from New York City. Luckily, Paw failed in his attempt to trap Ronald but succeeded in tricking a neighbor, Obeey Upschlager, to marry Ceelie. As the play ended, Paw and Maw Belsnickle gave Bonnie May, the prettiest and most intelligent of the Belsnickle sisters, permission to travel to New York with Ronald and his mother to receive an education.

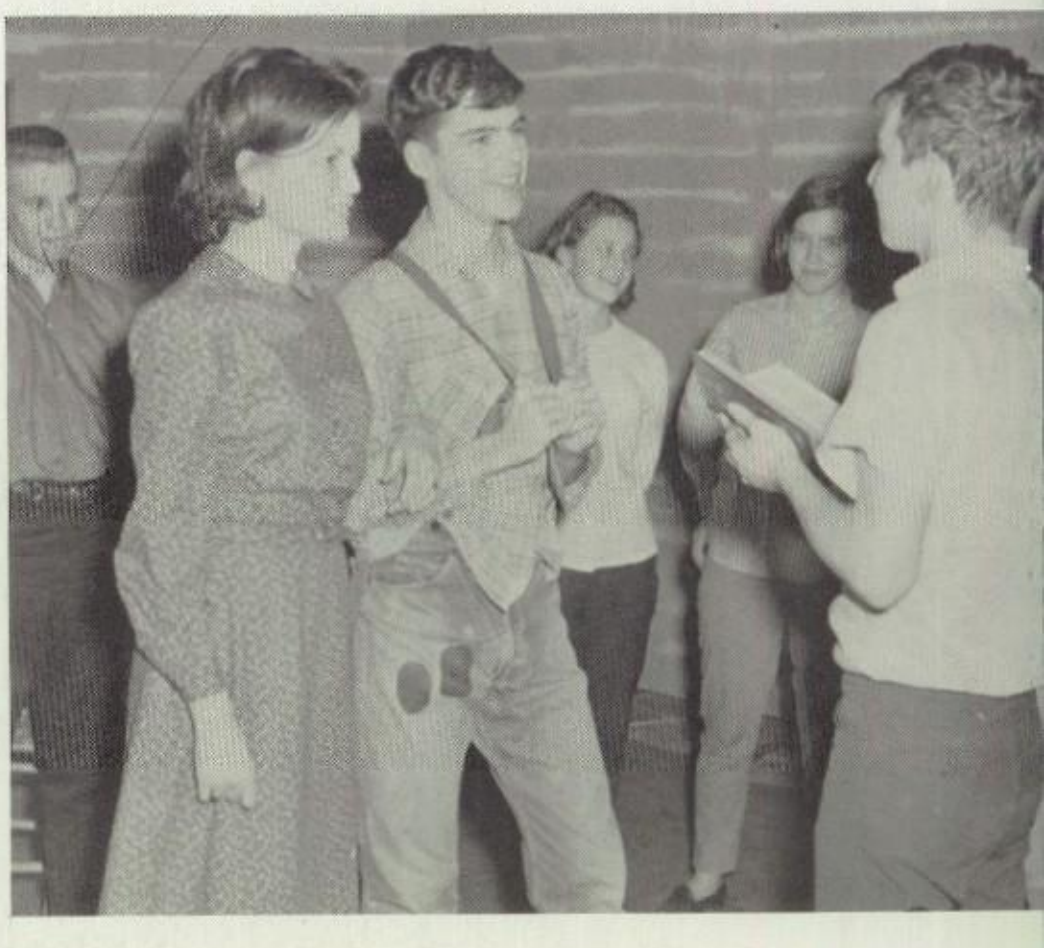
Seniors display theatrical talents in "Hillbilly Weddin' ".



Ceelie (Bev Keith), in an attempt to kill one of her pet rattlesnakes, smashes Obeey's (Ted Campbell) foot as he walks in the door.

Paw (Mike Harrell) is trying to persuade Ceelie (Bev Keith) to take the first bath of her life.

Ceelie (Bev Keith) and Obeey (Ted Campbell) "get hitched" as the Reverend (Bill Bryant) officiates.



Richie Kostal plasters John McConaghy for interfering with his romance.

Juniors present play within play.

Harriet Lamanna stomps Richie Kostal's foot for his behavior.

On November 19, the Junior Class of 1965-66 presented "Curtain Going Up", a three act comedy by Gregory Johnson. The play was centered around a first year high school teacher and the predicaments she faced as she tried to direct the Junior Play at Riverview High School. Miss Claiborne, played by Jackie Craft, overcame many obstacles and with the help of her hard working cast, made the play at Riverview High School a success. Other members of the cast in order of appearance were: Harry Abbott, Diane Towler, Liz Keith, Larry Mays, Jane Feagans, Bill Garbee, John McConaghy, Harriet Lamanna, Richard Kostal, Laura May, Patsy Wheeler, Bobby Daniel, Glenda Lawhorne, Susanne Dula, and Charles Hoilman. Of course, the play could not have been the success that it was without the fine job which the backstage crew did.

Advertisements

Madison Pharmacy offers free home delivery service.

The 1965-66 Amethyst staff began their work on the yearbook in the summer by soliciting advertisements from merchants and businesses in Amherst, Lynchburg and other outlying areas. The staff members covered the territory thoroughly, often returning to some places two or three times to confirm an ad. The work of these members included persuading people to buy the ads determining what each ad would say, sending out bills, and attending to many minor details. Many staff members worked on the ads during the summer and far into the fall and winter of the year. Because of the hard work done by the entire staff and especially by the advertising department, the advertising campaign was very successful. The staff renewed most old ads and acquired many new ones; thus, they reached and surpassed the goal that they had set for their campaign.

Most of the advertisements in this section are from places of business with which many students are familiar. Local businessmen often contributed ads as recognition of the patronage of A. C. H. S. students and their parents.

Without the ads on the following pages, the Amethyst would not have been possible. The advertising section was what paid for much of each yearbook and made the price paid by the student as low as possible. This very important section constituted a large portion of the foundation of this 1966 Amethyst.

For everything there is a season; a time to begin. . . a time to end.

For everything there is a season, and a time for every matter under heaven:
a time to be born, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to pluck up what is planted;
a time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to break down, and a time to build up;
a time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance;
a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together;
a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
a time to seek, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
a time to rend, and a time to sew;
a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
a time to love, and a time to hate;
a time for war, and a time for peace.

Ecclesiastes 3:1-9
